Parchment & Beyond

Parchment: a Unique Material

As ancient as the artisan's gesture and as precious as a work of art, parchment is more than just a material: it is natural leather and tactile memory.

Used for centuries to preserve words and images, today parchment has evolved into a protagonist of interior design. Reinterpreted with elegance and vision, it is obtained from goatskin and treated to become a surface that is both functional and sensually vibrant, capable of transforming any object into a unique experience.

Each piece of parchment reveals a unique pattern, defined by its matt or gloss finish, the richness of color, and the natural beauty of the skin.

The Art of Parchment

Extroverso carries forward the heritage of Tura, a family company founded in 1939 and internationally renowned for its craftsmanship with parchment and Art Deco creations.

Specializing in the refined art of covering and finishing with natural parchment (goatskin) and galuchat (shagreen), Extroverso brings timeless materials into contemporary design. We collaborate with interior designers and architects around the world to develop exclusive projects and unique pieces, from residential spaces to yachts, hotels, offices, and luxury boutiques. Every creation is tailor-made and handcrafted, reflecting our commitment to excellence and our passion for materials.

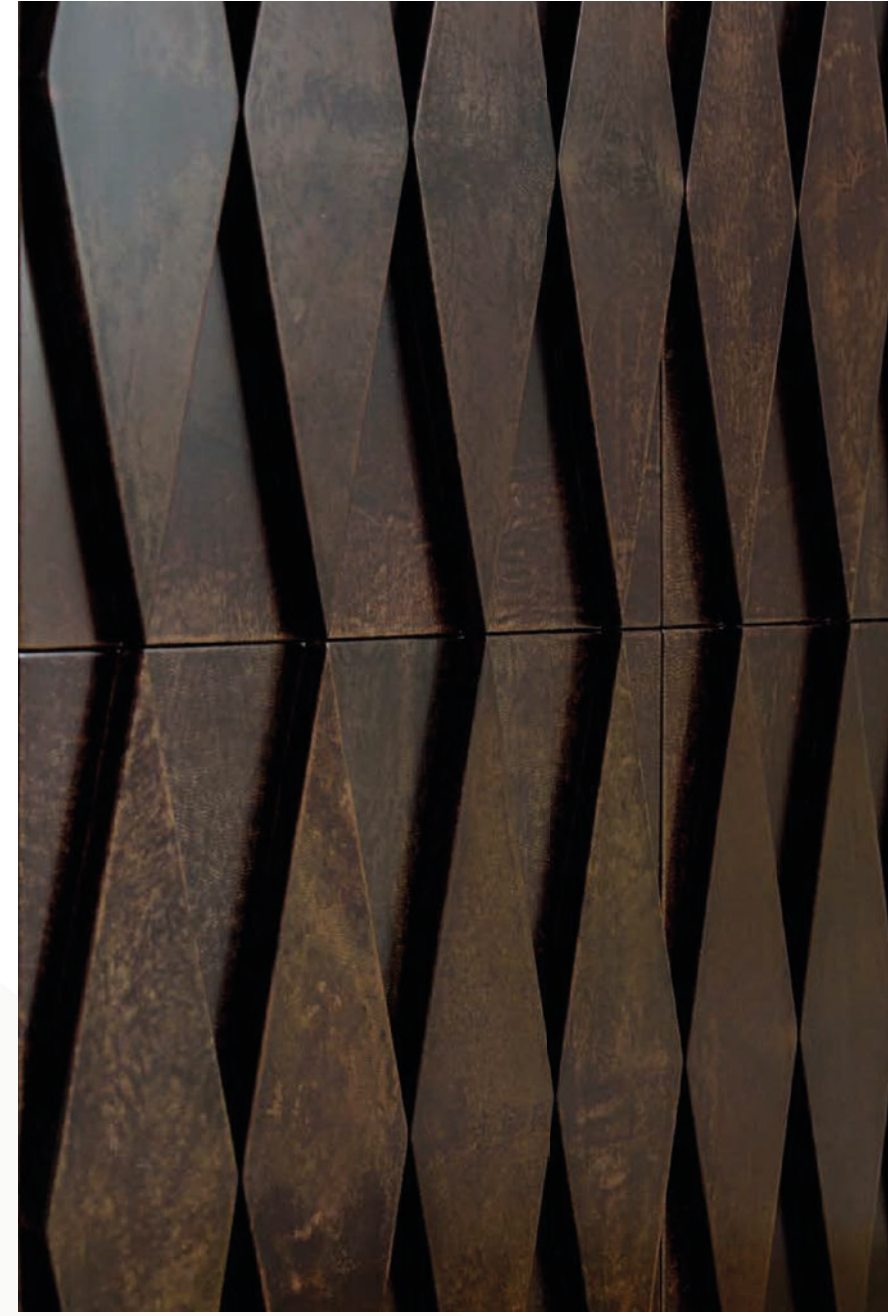

At Extroverso, we merge tradition with innovation, transforming rare leathers into extraordinary pieces, and continuing a legacy of Italian excellence in design and craftsmanship.

Natural Materials for Unique Pieces

Each element is selected with care and crafted through refined artisanal techniques to bring your aesthetic vision to life. Whether harmonizing with an existing design or creating a striking contrast, every object becomes a singular expression of style.

Parchment Artworks

Parchment can also be artistically enhanced through inlays, layered applications, and hand-made decorations, creating unique patterns, textures, and visual effects.

Galuchat

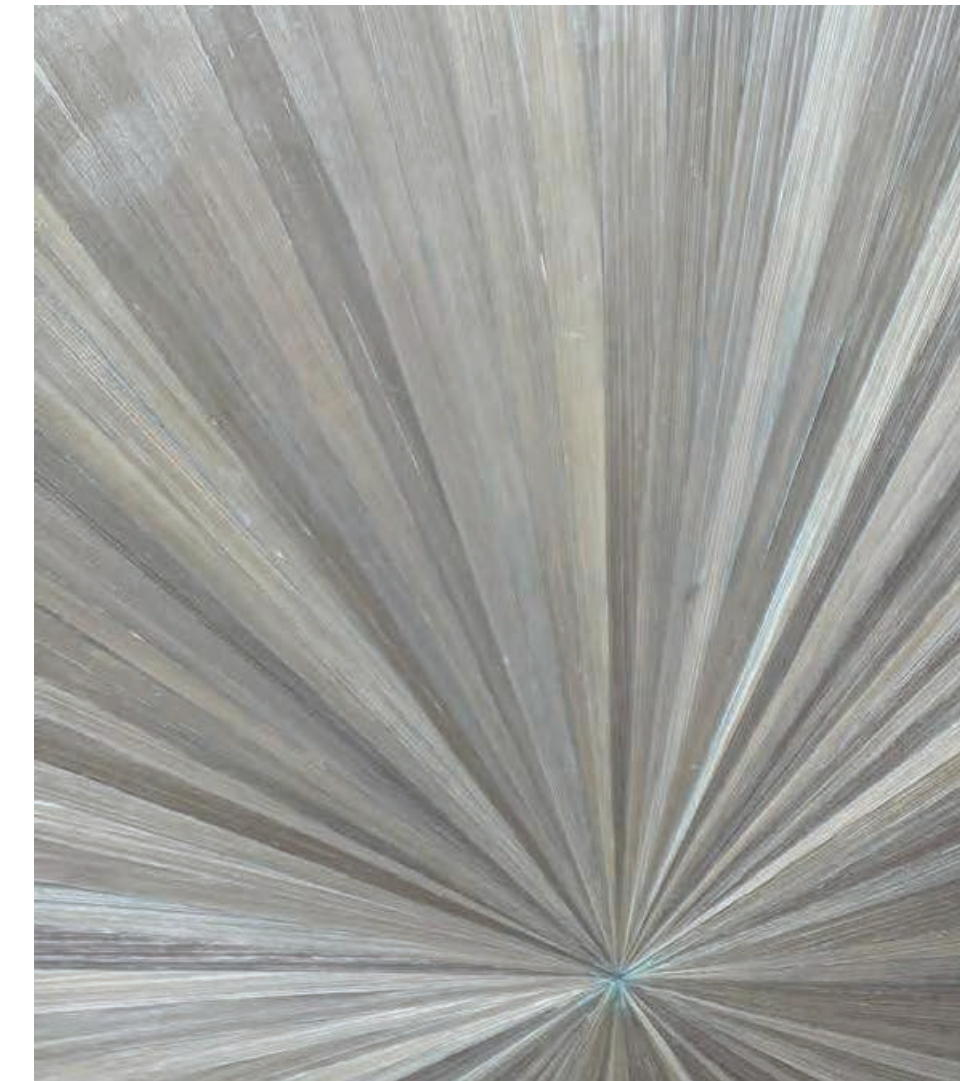

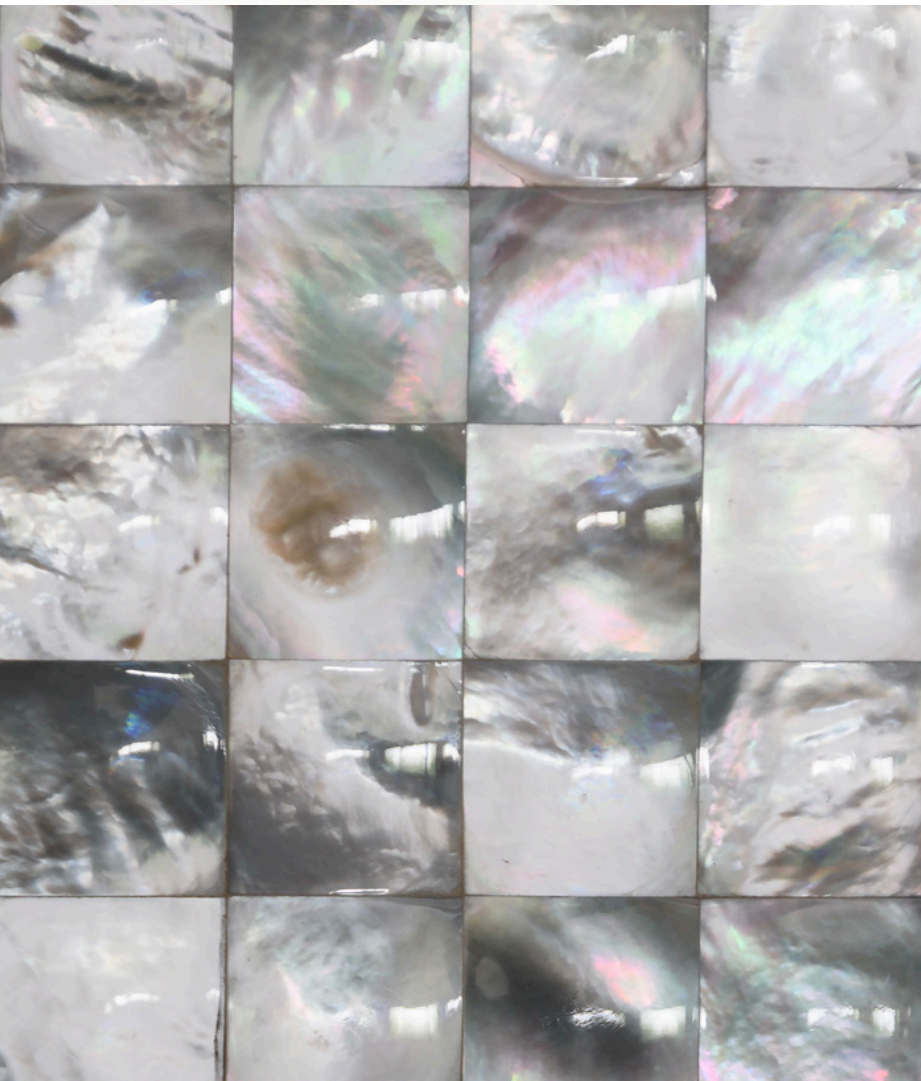

Shagreen leather, also known as Galuchat, is a luxurious and distinctive material frequently used in Art Deco design.

We apply it to furniture pieces and wall paneling to bring a touch of elegance and sophistication.

Renowned for its exceptional strength, shagreen is easily recognizable by its unique surface texture, composed of small, naturally irregular “pearls” that can also be polished smooth. This unique, tactile finish creates a refined look, and when used on table tops, panels, consoles, and other surfaces, it highlights the natural beauty of the material.

Beyond Parchment

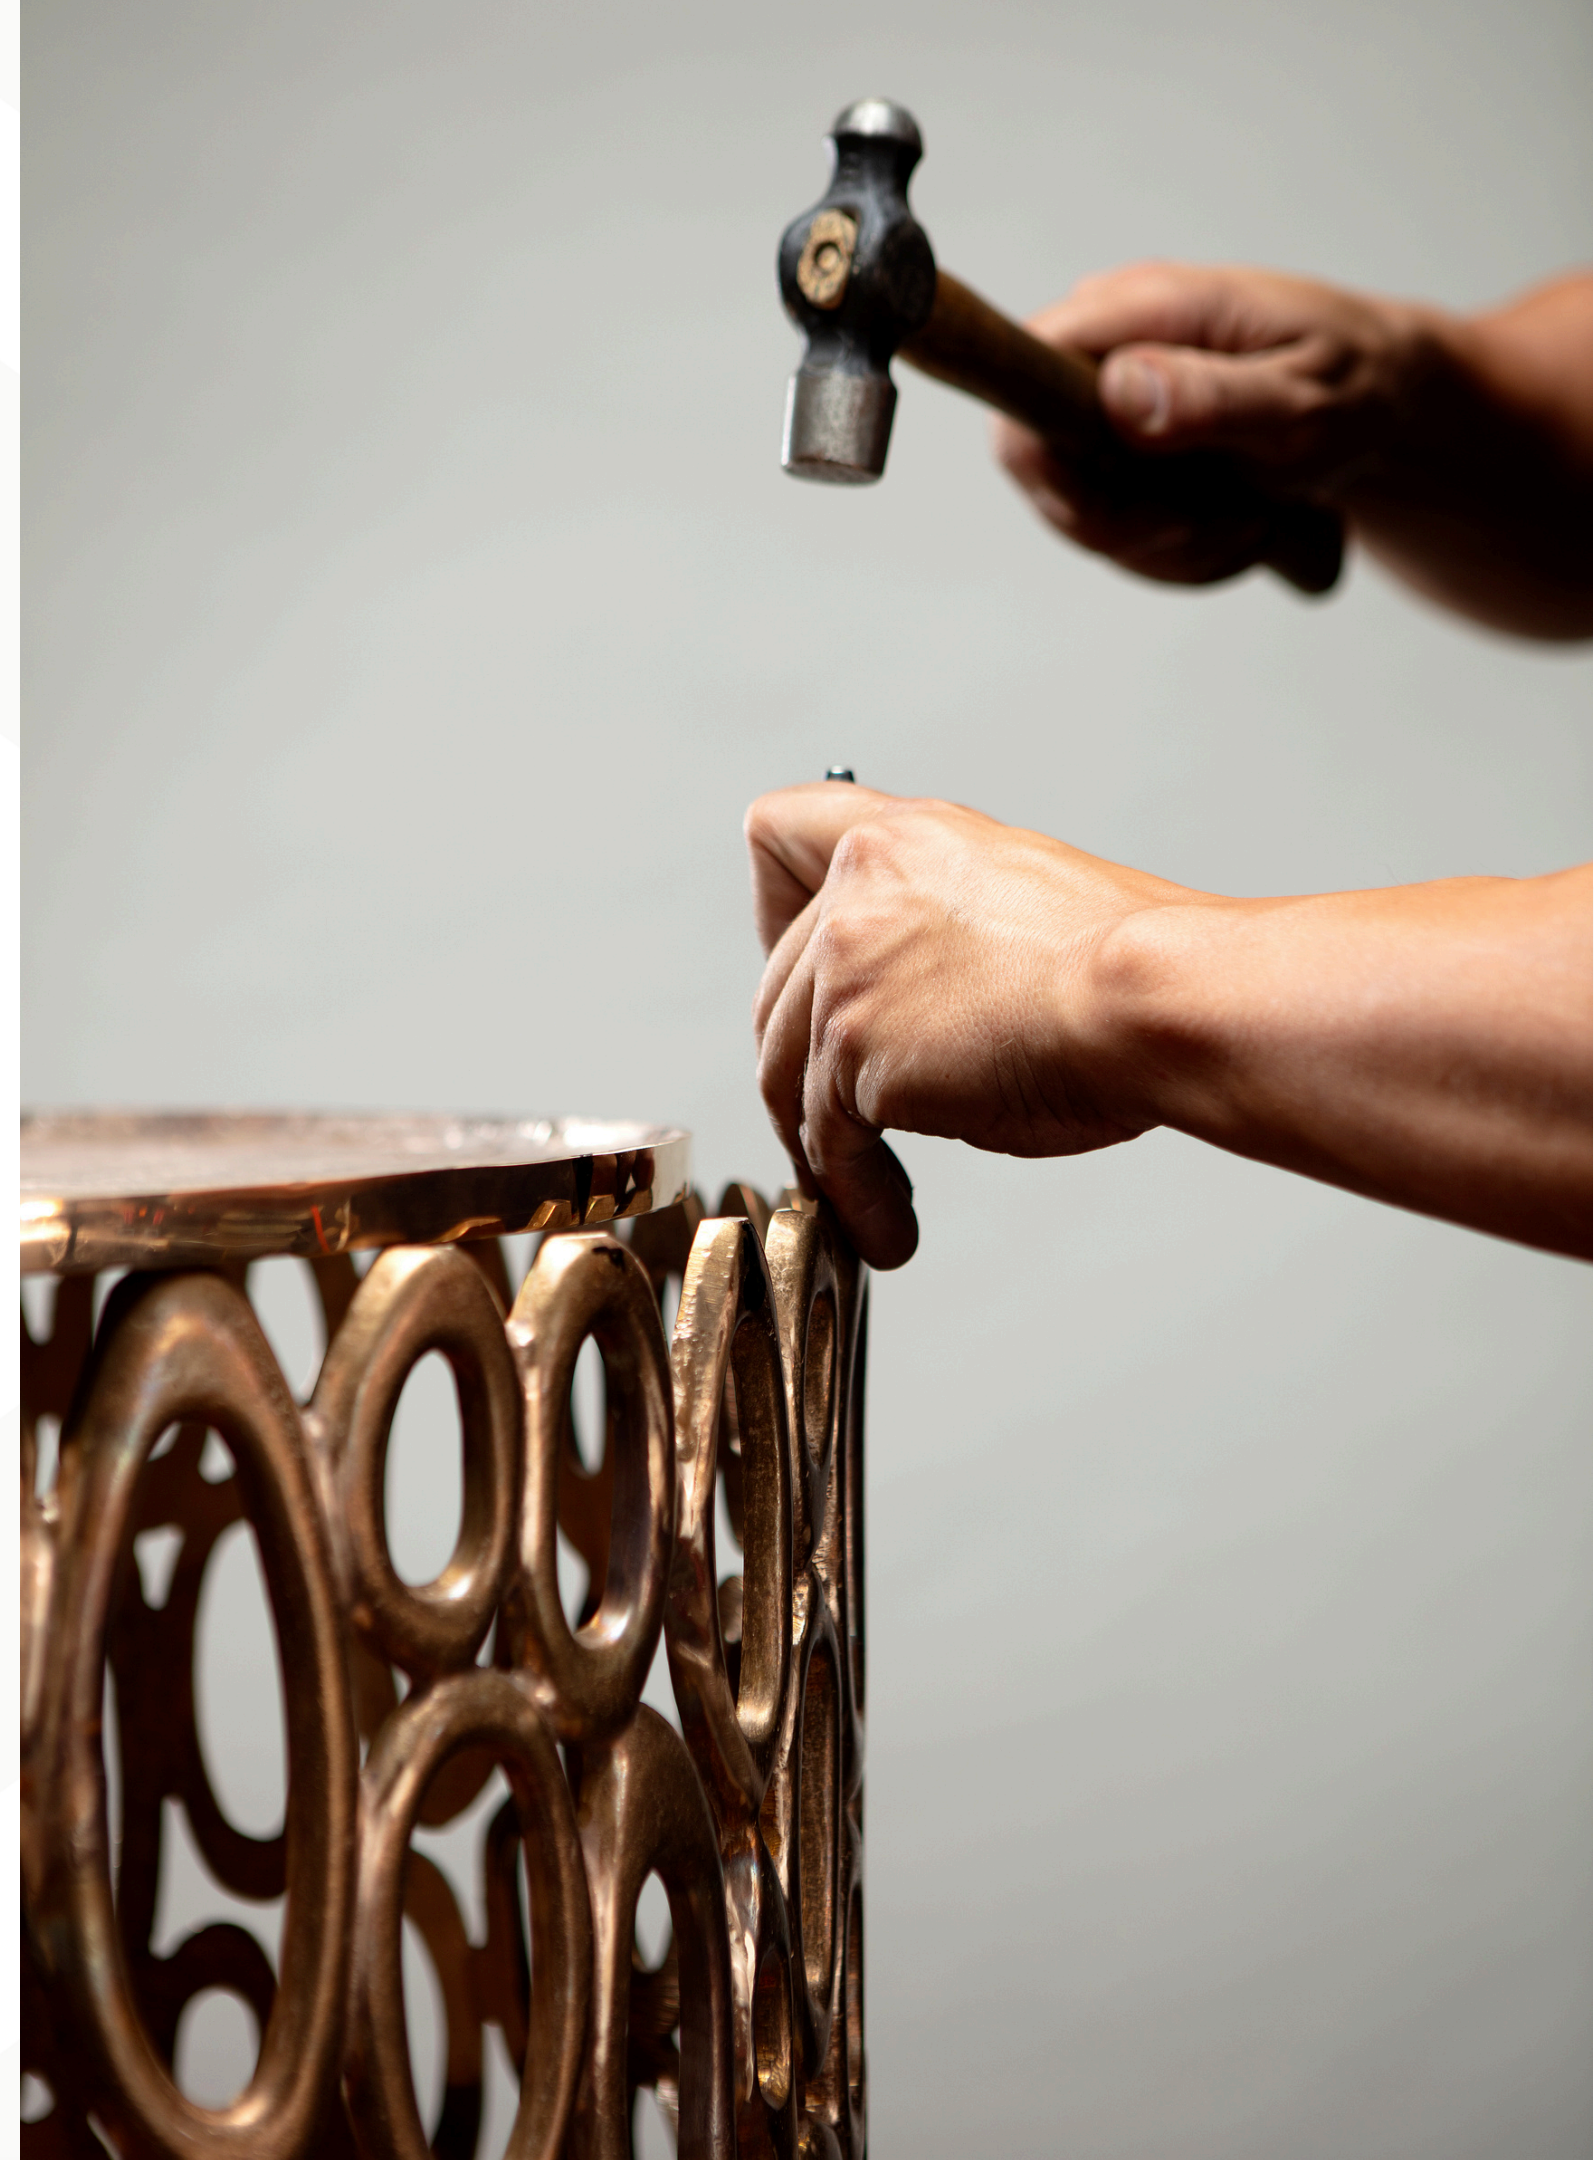

While parchment and galuchet are the heart of our expertise, our artisans are equally skilled in working with a variety of noble materials, including: Brass and Bronze Castings, Straw Marquetry, Mother of Pearl, Selenite, Stones & Decorative Finishes. From unique furniture pieces to wall panelling, doors, and more; we turn materials into meaningful design.

Tailor Made Vision

At Extroverso, every bespoke project begins with a simple yet powerful idea: yours.

We bring your vision to life through a collaborative process that blends creativity, craftsmanship, research, and technical skill. From private residences to luxury boutiques, our tailor-made approach allows designers and clients to shape objects that reflect their personal aesthetic, elevate their environment, and express refined individuality. It's not just personalization, it's a shared creative journey.
